INTERIM NEWSLETTER No. 85 May 2020

Dear U3A member,

Welcome to our third Interim Newsletter, intended to keep us in touch and raise our spirits in these unprecedented times. It is ironic that Lee Mack's 'Not Going Out' is not going out when we have not been going out!

Members have been responding very well to the request for material, and many thanks for your contributions. It is sometimes difficult fitting in all the material submitted in the space available; so preference is given to original material from members themselves, rather than anything reproduced from elsewhere. Also, U3A policy, nationally and locally, is not to advertise other organisations: so this will be reflected in the newsletter. Otherwise, please keep your contributions coming, and be understanding if not everything makes the final edition.

Keep your distance and keep smiling. Ken Fisher, Editor

A message from our Chairs

Dear members,

We hope you are all keeping safe, well and positive. The cooler weather has forced us to focus on sorting out matters that we somewhat neglected when the sun was shining and we could bask in the welcome warmth.

We are in the process of working out how best to take our postponed Annual General Meeting forward. We hope to let you know shortly how we plan to involve you in decision making via post and email.

At our last committee meeting the committee members due to stand down kindly agreed to stay on for an interim period to ensure we have continuity at this challenging time. The committee also agreed to co-opt three nominees to work on the committee until the AGM, when you will be able to formally approve their appointment. They are Liz Cregan, Alan Fair and Ann Walsh. We thank them and welcome them aboard.

Do keep contributing to our newsletters. It's great to share and helps bring us closer together.

Keep smiling

Best wishes

Anne and Sara

Interest Group Feedback

Creative Writing Group (2)

"Our new group was lucky to meet face to face just before isolation started. Apart from each reading a short prepared biography (in any style), we did a quick exercise using key-rings as "triggers" for our imagination. We had ten minutes to write a spontaneous response based on the key-ring we chose (e.g. a Lamborghini fob, a smiley face, a label which said "Garage", an American flag...), the idea being to tap into our creativity without too much conscious thought. Some real little gems emerged. We then set "homework" by providing a choice of 6 sentences, one to be incorporated into a 200-word story. For example, "That cushion with the bright yellow fringe could tell a tale or two". These homework pieces are more considered and crafted – and often emerge as real little stories (and now of course we don't need such a rigid word-count).

Since isolation, the members have used email to circulate monthly "triggers" (a photo of ties/cravats and another of suitcases lined up in a hallway) and "homework" (more diverse sentences), and then we have written our critiques using WhatsApp so we can all read them. One member provided valuable guidelines for doing critiques in a helpful way. This has worked brilliantly. We're having lots of fun, and we all feel very positive that we can share our writing despite all the difficulties".

More about bread baking from Jill Adams

I have baked all our bread ever since we were married in 1970 and I'm attaching a picture of my latest baking. I bake 4x1lb loaves at a time and freeze 3 so that we always have a supply. Fortunately I had some wholemeal flour in stock because it now seems to be impossible to get hold of. I use 3 parts of brown bread flour to 1 part of strong white, 2 packets of yeast, 4 tablespoons of sugar, 2 ounces of melted margarine, 1 pint of milk and 1 pint of warm water

Best wishes,

Jill Adams

TV Licensing - a warning message from Roger McFadden U3A Science Group

Several members of the Science Group have received a scam email purporting to originate from UK TV Licensing. Other MKHD U3A members may also find it appearing in their inbox. The email is headed 'TV Licensing Official' and indicates that there has been a problem processing payments. This is a scam designed to gain access to your bank details so on no account follow any links from this email.

How to check the authenticity of the email...

1. Genuine emails from UK TV Licensing use 'donotreply@tvlicensing.co.uk'. A scam email address will read something like webmaster@.jp'.
2. Genuine emails from UK TV Licensing include your name rather than 'dear customer' or dear 'your email address'.

UK TV Licensing website has a clearly written section on scams and how to spot them - <https://www.tvlicensing.co.uk/>

Keep yourselves safe from viruses and scammers..!
